THE 1915 INSTANO
Published Annually by the Senior Class of the
Indiana State Normal School,
Indiana, Pennsylvania.

VOLUME IV
Class of Nineteen Hundred Fifteen.

Champion Press, College Printers, Columbus, Ohio.

Foreword

"My books are my friends that never fail me."—Carlyle.

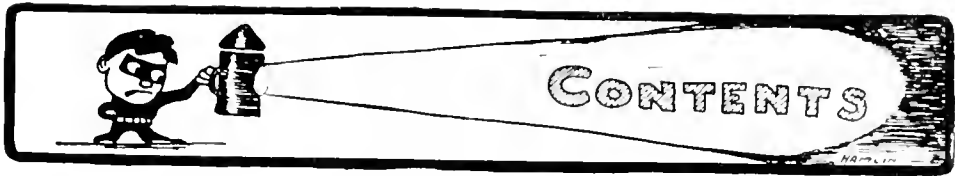

EVERYONE should own and read good books. For why not have a few printed friends as well as a host of promiscuous individuals; a few friends that will never fail you. Just such a book is the Instano—a true friend, ever ready to tell you the story of an influencing chapter of your lives: a detailed history, so to speak, of the 1915 class during its period of preparation for the realization of its great purpose—the advancement of education. And with all due respect for the feelings of others, we can safely say that no organization however great has ever had a nobler purpose than the class of 1915 in preparing itself for the most unselfish calling that we know of—the teaching profession.

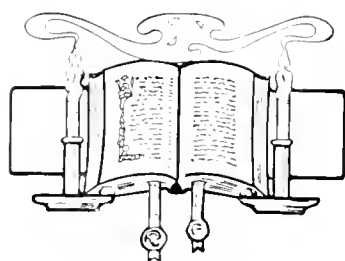

The Instano, however, is but a token of the sincere, practical efforts that will be made by the class in the fulfillment of its purpose. To properly advance education, the educational deficiencies must first be recognized. Yet the task of stating these needs is fraught with difficulty because of the imminent possibility of appearing inconsiderate. A statement of needs is necessarily a statement of ideals and they, in turn, depend upon what we think the children ought to have to prepare them for the highest efficiency in life. Our needs are the difference between our present equipment and what our ideals would lead us to anticipate.

A statement of them, therefore, affords us an objective, a point, towards which to work, and while many of these needs are, in a way, remote, one great deficiency is, nevertheless, clear and distinct. It presents itself in the form of a need for more efficient teachers. Recognizing this as one of the essentials for the advancement of education, the class hopes that, as a part of the world-wide movement, it may be able to factor in establishing education on a more firm foundation, and to so apply their efforts as to insure a steady and persistent growth along the lines indicated by modern educational thought.

History of the Instano

THIS marks the fourth year of the Instano's existence, it having originated with the class of 1912. And although but four in number, each volume stands as a monument to the classes that have gone out in these years.

The first Instano was a beautiful specimen of literary art, but was a failure, financially. Profiting by the mistakes of the previous publishers, the 1913 class made their book a decided success, and its makers may be justly proud of their production. Mismanagement brought a second financial failure upon the 1914 class; otherwise their book was successful.

The Instano is yet youthful, and its defects many, however, we sincerely hope for its continuance and that one day it will be placed upon a firm foundation, that it will be a book written by the entire class, not by a few individuals, and that it will serve as a tie to hold its makers more securely in the bonds of friendship.

The Pennsylvania State Normal School History

THIS school has a great purpose, and its vast machinery and equipment is directed toward the fulfillment of this purpose -- to develop character, to promote intelligence and respect for honest labor among young people; to conserve worthy social institutions; and to render a real service to the state. The plan of this institution was conceived in the early sixties, but the school was not opened until 1875. Its first principal was Dr. E. B. Fairfield, who afterwards became the first Chancellor of the University of Nebraska. The first building was one of the finest, largest and best-planned structures devoted to normal school education in the United States, and still stands, a monument to its founders. Since then several large annexes to this building have been constructed, together with a dormitory for men students, a model school, and recitation hall. During the past year there has been erected, just across the P. R. R., one of the best power plants owned by a school, and at the present time Dr. Ament is planning for a fine, large gymnasium, to be erected directly west of Clark Hall. Indiana has grown steadily since the time of its founding, and with every indication for a still larger growth, bids fair to some day stand alone as a school of its kind.

In the forty years of her existence, Indiana Normal has graduated about two thousand alumni, and these form the Alumni Association. At the Alumni Business Meeting during Commencement week, the members of the Senior Class are received into the Alumni Association. There are no fees or dues to be paid, the proceeds of the Alumni Banquet covering all necessary annual expenses.

The Normal catalogue of each year contains a revised Alumni Register and Class Directory so far as known. As this is the official list of Alumni, it is expected that every graduate will notify the school of all changes in name, address, or occupation, in order that the list may be kept as nearly correct as possible. The Normal Herald and other publications are sent free to all graduates if their addresses are known. Prof. M. C. Gordon has charge of the Alumni Directory, and will appreciate any information regarding the graduates of Indiana.

Every school looks to its Alumni for aid in many ways, and we can prove our loyalty by our response. Loyalty to our Alma Mater at all times should be unquestioned. If we have unfavorable criticisms to offer, let us take them to headquarters, instead of discussing any shortcomings with outsiders. After all, we know more about the defects of our own schools than we do of other schools. Without doubt we should find even more to criticise in a strange school. Suggestions from Alumni are always welcome, and will invariably receive due consideration.

In the getting of new students to fill our former places, the graduates of Indiana can do wonders. In our own towns we know the promising students, and can often influence them to choose Indiana for their school, thus conferring a favor on both school and student. The value of our own diploma depends largely on the present rating of the school from which we graduated.

This year the Indiana Alumni were given an opportunity to aid the school financially by subscribing to the proposed new Gymnasium. While all the returns are not yet in, it is hoped that the proceeds will enable the trustees to begin this much-needed building. Many classes have erected memorials in different places on the campus, but this is the first endeavor to secure a building by subscription. Let us all put our shoulder to the wheel and help the cause.

Commencement week belongs to the Seniors and the Alumni, all being Alumni before the week closes. Tuesday morning, June 29th, at nine o'clock is the time of this year's annual Alumni Business Meeting, which will be held in Normal Chapel, the only room large enough for the purpose. After the reception of the new class, with greetings and a response by the class representative, the Alumni hear reports from committees, elect the officers for the next year, and enjoy short speeches by members of the Association.

At seven o'clock the same evening, the annual Alumni Banquet and Dance is held. An elaborate banquet is served in the Refectory, classes sitting together informally, the Seniors and their guests in the Annex. The Conservatory Orchestra plays during the banquet; a few short, after-dinner speeches follow; "Alma Mater" is sung by all, standing; then all march to Recreation Hall, where from ten to two o'clock a dance is held, with music by a special orchestra. Tickets to banquet and dance are one dollar, and the proceeds, after expenses are paid, are handed over to the school to help defray Commencement week expenses.

This year's Commencement should draw many Alumni back to Indiana, as all public schools are finished before June 27th. Every graduate is welcomed, and given free lodging and six free meals. The ten, twenty and twenty-five year classes are guests of the school for a week at their anniversary celebration. The special classes this year are 1890, 1895 and 1905.

During each year two special reunions of Western Pennsylvania Alumni of Indiana Normal are held in Pittsburg, and are open to all friends of the school. The annual banquet was held at the Fort Pitt Hotel, Friday evening, April 9th, and was attended by about two hundred and fifty persons. The annual picnic will be held in Schenley Park, Saturday afternoon, July 10, 1915. All bring baskets and eat supper in groups. It is hoped that a large number will plan to attend this year, and make the annual outing a success.

Class History 1915

THE class of 1915 had its beginning as the first real Freshman class of the four-year course at Indiana in the fall of 1911. There were not many of us at first and we were rather insignificant, but have since made up for lost time. During the spring term and the following fall we increased in size, and by the following June numbered over one hundred.

In September, 1913, our ranks swelled to two hundred and twenty-five, and increased throughout the year.

The first of October was the beginning of our class as an organized body. The first class meeting was called by Professor John E. Smith, Chairman of the Junior Classification Committee. The following officers were elected: President, Clarence Fleck; Vice President, Harry Fee; Secretary, Mary Alice Watson; Treasurer, Margaret McMeekin. The class chose Black and Gold as its colors, and the Yellow Chrysanthemum for class flower.

The next exciting event was the color rush. The Seniors found they had no small obstacle to overcome when they faced the wall of Juniors and finally were compelled to ride under the Black and Gold when they started on their hayride.

Hallowe'en brought forth our initial social function in the form of the Junior Prom. It was pronounced a "howling" success by all participants.

Our class showed its literary ability by editing one number of the Sophist and aiding the class of 1914 in the production of its Instano.

Soon after the opening of school in the fall of 1914 the class chose as leaders, President, William Markle; Vice President, Clarence Fleck; Secretary, Mary Alice Watson; Treasurer, Louise Grant.

The Senior Hayride and Color Rush took place on Monday, September 28, 1914. The class of 1916 showed lots of "pep," but 1915 was a little too much for them. The Country Club and the surrounding landscape made a fitting background in their glowing autumn colors for such an illustrious group of future instructors.

Throughout the year the Seniors have been flitting to and from our model school with plans, etc., eager to gain information concerning the training of our future citizens.

On the night of February 20th our beautiful new Recreation

INSTANTO '15

Hall and Ambulatory were gay with the fluffy, light dresses and the sombre evening clothes of the Seniors and their partners, one-stepping and hesitating to the measure of the latest popular pieces. This bright function will long linger in the minds of all Seniors.

The production of the 1915 Instanto was put into the hands of Glennie Clemenson as Editor-in-Chief, and Frank Unger as Business Manager.

At the close of this, our last year at Indiana, we regret that we have not one more year to spend in our Alma Mater, but we must make room for others, and are very grateful for the opportunity afforded us to make this history to record.

Nineteen Fifteen Loyalty Song

(Star of the Summer Night)

LOVE, Faith and Loyalty,
These things thy name shall mean,
These things we swear to thee,
To thee, Nineteen Fifteen!

And in the coming years,
Thy name shall e'er be seen
Where all it means endears
To thee, Nineteen Fifteen!

If ever in life's strife
Our simple faith serene
Falters, we look to thee,
To thee, Nineteen Fifteen!

Indiana, thou are our guide,
Thy name, our standard high.
Your love will never die
For us, Nineteen Fifteen!

And tho, we say good-bbye,
Still do we vow to thee
Love, Faith and Loyalty,
To thee, Nineteen Fifteen!

The Passing Day

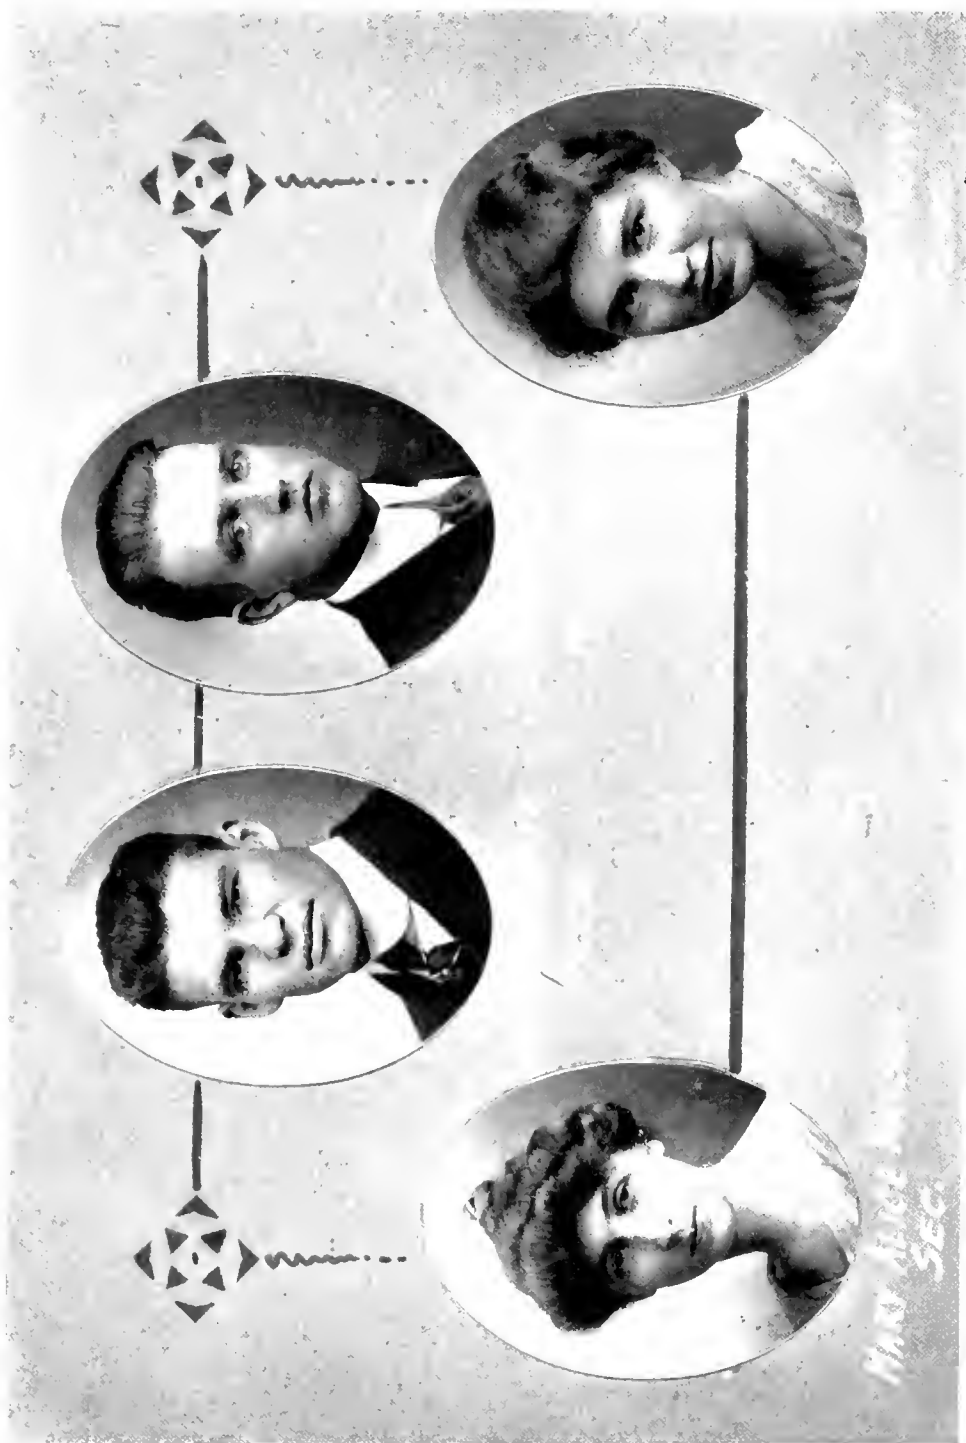

THE world has dulled its bloom to mark our leaving,
As purple twilight dims our brightest day,
Its splendor lulls the moment of our grieving,
Its fragrant promise "tends us on our way,
High in the dusky sky a star is shining,
A pale glow 'neath the soft moon's silver sheen,
Bright in the East another star is rising,
The Standard of our Class—
Nineteen Fifteen.

A Star, an emblem, that shall ever guide us,
To keep unspoiled our Alma Mater's fame,
To strive to overcome what ill betides us,
To conquer all in Indiana's name,
Tho years will pass, and joys and sorrows alter
The hopes and onward strivings of our class,
Our prayers for thee, or school, shall never falter,
Our love for thee be steadfast to the last.

The hovering gloom of night on earth descending
Entolds the flowering earth in dewy sleep,
And with the dying day our day is ending,
While safe the quickening stars their watches keep,
As day gives way to night, so we must leave thee,
Must leave thy blessed love and peace serene,
But may no wrongful acts of our e'er grieve thee,
Or stain the standard of
Nineteen Fifteen.

A cheer thrice giv'n with hearty voice
And now the sweet refrain.

Chorus

Sing, oh sing! Our Alma Mater's praise.
Hail, oh hail! her colors' gleaming hue!
Give to her our homage and our love,
And to her name be true.

Of Loyalty are symbols twain,
Her colors crimson and the gray.
"Dear Indiana a Mother Fair,"
The burden of our lay.

Junior Class History

N every school there must, of course, be Freshies, and the bunch that hailed into I. S. N. S. in the fall of 1912 were no exception to the general rule. They were quiet, shy youngsters, conspicuous for their prominence in the background.

The Sophomore year found them increased somewhat in numbers, but they had not yet forgotten the maxim of their childhood, "Children should be seen and not heard."

But, with their advent into school in 1914, everything began to take on a lively aspect. They were Juniors now and the task of assuming this new dignity and of organizing occupied the first month.

Life flowed along in its regular routine until the arrival of the long expected day of the Color Rush and Senior Hayride. Previous to this date the Juniors had conspired long behind closed doors, but "the best laid plans of mice and men gang aft agley." And since "to the victor belongs the spils," the Junior banners are now reposing quietly in the "stunt" books of the Senior girls.

The next affair which created intense interest in social circles was the "Junior Prom." This event was charming in every respect, but the Seniors remember one event of the previous year that far surpassed this one in 1914.

In the meantime our worthy underclassmen have been making rapid progress along intellectual lines and have been setting a standard for future Juniors—one that is still striving to meet the requirements of that one established only the year previous.

The Junior Class in all things has made a creditable record and we, the Seniors, wish you good luck and prosperity in any calling that "Life" has deemed best to give you.

Spirit of Indiana

N! On! On! On to victory,

Every one expects to see you win today.

Fight to win! "Play the game square."

Always for your Alma Mater do and dare!

Now then go! Give them not a show,

You have skill and daring, that we know,

For not only will you score, but will add a few points more,

Just to show them how we do at Indiana.

Indiana, don't you hear our cheer?

That you'll honor us we have no fear.

See our pennant floating o'er the field!

Unto foemen you will never yield!

You will hear us as we shout and sing,

With your praises will the welkin ring,

Other teams will know their fate,

When they meet the "Red and Slate."

It's the way we always do at Indiana. For it's

CHORUS:

Victory! Victory! Victory!

With your faces ever towards the foe,

Victory! Victory! Victory!

Pressing forward down the field you'll go,

Victory! Victory! Victory!

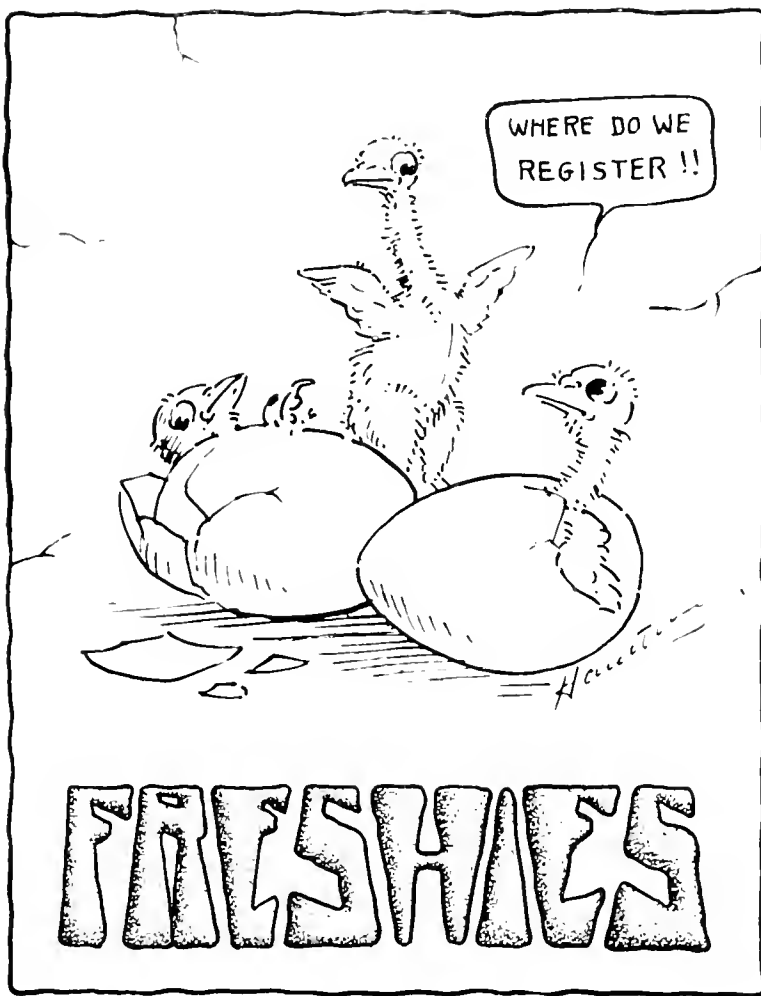

Ev'ry man is finding every play,

For it's written on your shield:

"Unto foemen never yield!"

We will always do our best for Indiana.

ORGANIZATIONS

The Erodelphian Literary Society

THE Erodelphian Literary Society was organized during the first years of the school. Although it had but a few members during its first year, 1875, these members were enthusiastic members, and the society soon became one of the leading organizations of the school, much of which is due to the hard work and persistent efforts of the Alumni, who never neglect to urge the new members of the school to become Erodelphians. The purpose of the society is to give students an opportunity to become proficient in public speaking and parliamentary tactics. It has surely served its purpose, for the society boasts of some of the most eloquent speakers in the school. Recently the society decided to overhaul its room, and has succeeded in almost completely transforming the place. During the year the Erodelphians have given some noteworthy farces, and will, in the near future, produce "Mice and Men" at the Auditorium, and later in Punxsutawney. The play will be, as we hope, a good example of the Erodelphians' talent and will stand as ample proof that the society has realized its purpose.

The Huyghenian Literary Society

ORTY years have passed since a few enthusiastic students, under the supervision and with the advice of our present Preceptress, organized the Huyghenian Literary Society and adopted the preamble to its constitution.

We, students of the State Normal School, Indiana, Pa., knowing the advantages of a free people of ease and force in debate, of skill in composition and of practice in parliamentary usage, to secure for ourselves these advantages, to promote research, and to increase our social enjoyment, do declare ourselves a society.

The present members of the society are proud of the fact that they have done all in their power to carry out its purpose. With one hundred and fifty enthusiastic, hard-working students on its membership roll, it is one of the most flourishing of the school societies. Its open meetings, held in chapel during the early part of each term, have been well attended and the numbers on the program fully appreciated. Among the farces given at the open meetings are "A Bunch of Roses" and "Peter." The annual play of the society, "All-of-a-Sudden Peggy," was presented at the Auditorium on April 17, 1915, and from a financial and dramatic standpoint was a well-earned success.

The Lincoln Debating Club

THE Lincoln Debating Club, a male organization, limited in membership to the number of thirty-five, was organized six years ago under the supervision of Prof. Albert Heckel. The purpose of our work is three-fold: to make ourselves efficient and forceful in debate and argument, skillful in composition and practiced in parliamentary procedure. In order to carry out our purpose, we meet every Monday morning, during the fall and winter terms, in Huyghenian Hall. The club is divided into three equal divisions, each of which debate every third week. Our subjects for debate are varied and include a wide range, from national policies to questions of peculiar importance to us as students. An open discussion follows each regular debate, and thus gives an opportunity to all to express an opinion. Impromptu speeches by members of the divisions not debating aid greatly in developing our ability to speak extemporaneously.

Although we challenged Kiski to a debate again this year, they failed to accept it because of a rule they had adopted previous to our challenge, which limited them to debate within their school. Thus we were deprived of an opportunity to again show our worth.

Our annual debate and dance, an account of which appears elsewhere in this volume, was held on Saturday evening, February 27, 1915.

THE work of the Young Women's Christian Association during the past year has been very successful. Early in the fall term many new students were added to our membership. They were welcomed into the association by a special reception given by the old members. During the latter part of the term, Miss Richardson, field secretary of the Y. W. C. A., gave new vigor to our spiritual and social life. While here she conducted a class on the Mission Work in India. By her charming personality she won the hearts of all the girls with whom she came in contact. The results of her stay were shown by the added enthusiasm and interest in the prayer meeting. During the last of January a series of prayer meetings were held as preparation for the special meetings to be conducted by Dr. Smith, of Detroit. Great interest was shown in the meetings throughout the entire time, and many were helped to a clearer conception of the Christian life. The work of the committees has been faithfully carried out, especially that of the special service. The work of this committee, called the What-So-Ever-Circle, has far exceeded that of former years. Thus, with the help and advice of Miss Leonard, the year has come to a successful close.

INSTANTANO '15

ONE of the most helpful organizations in the institution is the students' Y. M. C. A., an association that exerts a splendid influence on the men and accomplishes much good. All the officers are students, and the membership comprises a majority of the boys in school. Meetings are held every Thursday and Sunday evenings, at which time a prayer service is enjoyed, and usually some subject of interest to young men is discussed. Leaders are regularly scheduled for the discussions. Great interest is shown by all the boys and a splendid attendance is maintained. It would be difficult to overestimate the good the association is now doing, for its results are far reaching. It not only inspires the young men to lead clean lives, but it also gives them a training in religious activity that will serve as a most valuable adjunct when they take up their profession of teaching. It also enables them to become proficient in public speaking. The inter-changing of ideas among the young men, and the emphasis that is laid on all that is good and clean has a most salutary effect in shaping the lives of all those who come within the influence of this splendid organization.

Allied Arts Club

"Art is a bit of nature seen thru a temperament."—Zola.

This club is in the same relation to the Fine Arts School that the Literary Societies are to the regular Normal. It is composed of teachers and students and meets mid-weekly in the Red Hall of the Conservatory.

Its motto is "Culture is the pathway to a higher life," its colors, Green and Gold.

The club seal shows a Greek figure, representing the unity of the arts, lighting her lamp at the divine fire. The shape of the seal is a circle, symbolizing eternity.

A wreath of laurel signifies earthly honors. A Delta and stars over the figure indicates perfection and ideals unattained. The smoke from the fire in the tripod faintly suggests an ancient lyre which typifies the elusive mystery of music.

The club was founded in 1907. The following is a representative program:

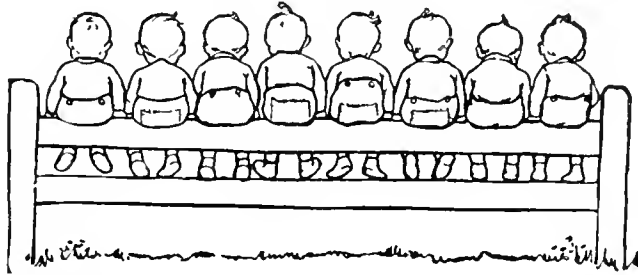

Shakespeare and Music

The Nut Club

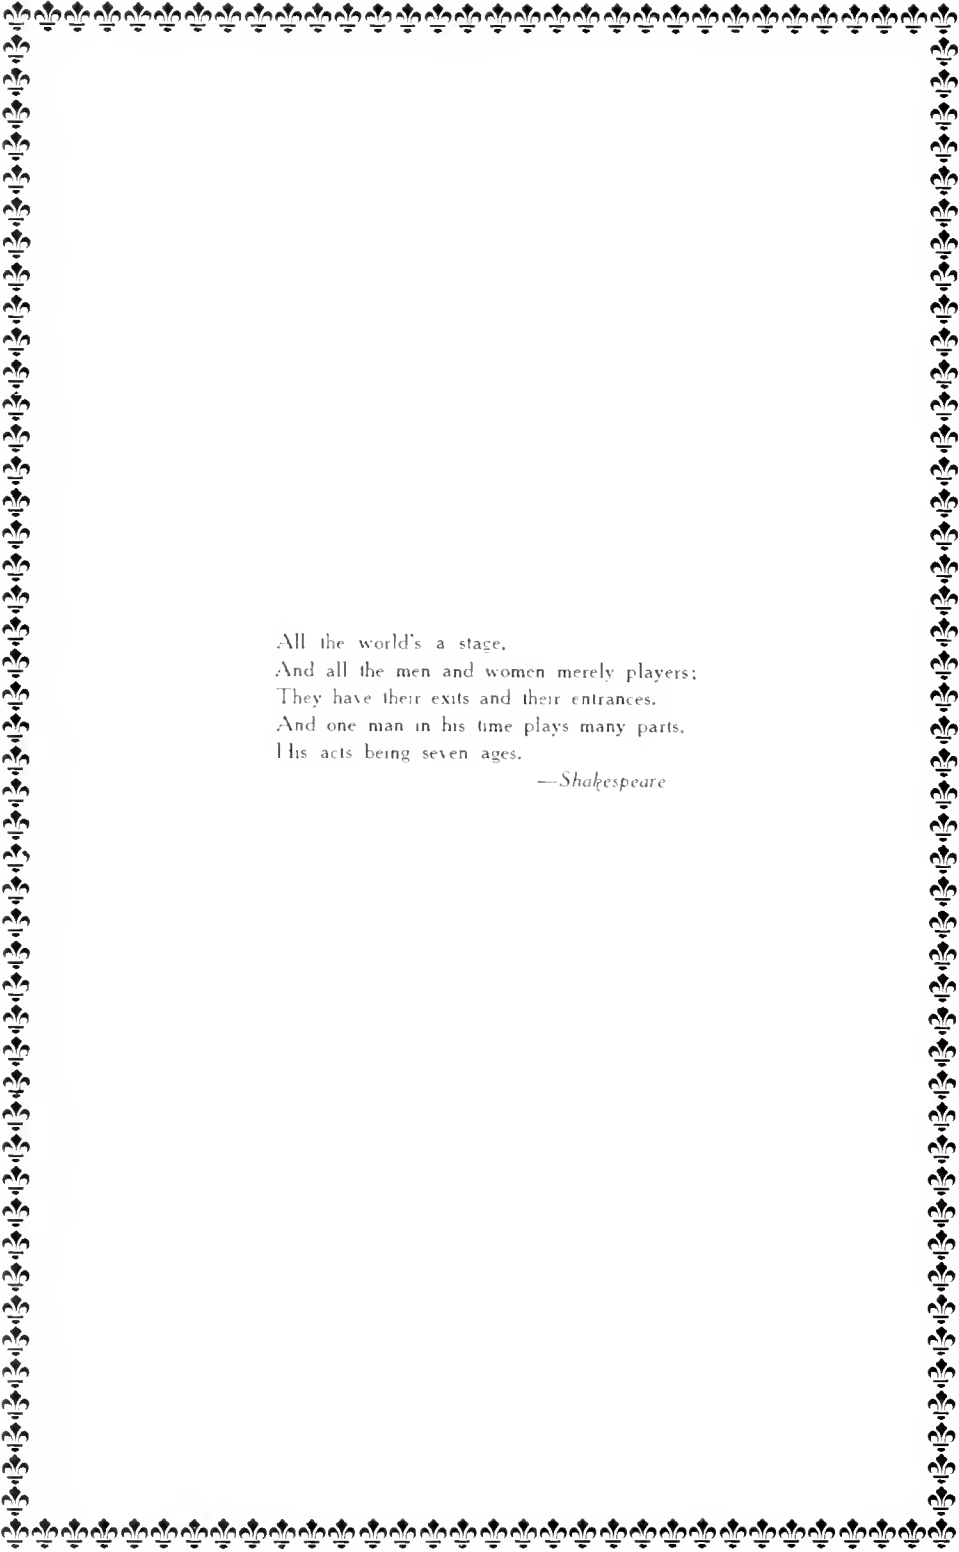

Rear-end view of the Association's charter members.

Any irregular student who has a good "standing" in the school and who is deemed sufficiently "nuts" to merit the title of "Scatter-Brains" is eligible as a candidate for membership.

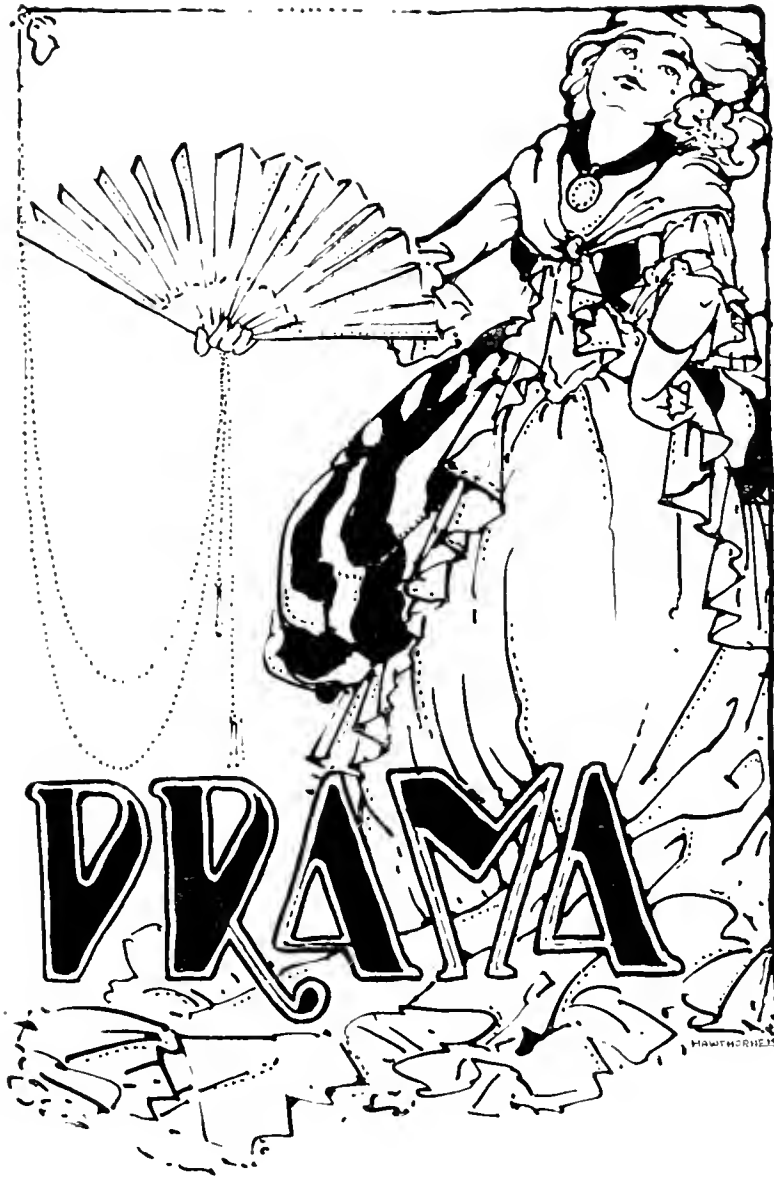

The club was organized for the express purpose of the promulgation of its brethren and cistern. There is an annual gathering of the "Nuts" in the fall of each year. Its founder is Kernel P. Nut Spencer. Although he is frequently roasted, the Kernel isn't a bad nut. Another noteworthy member of the club is "Old Hickory" Holland. He is a hard Nut but is very popular. He also belongs to the Indian Club and is a loyal member of the Nights of Gladness.

All the world's a stage,
And all the men and women merely players;
They have their exits and their entrances,
And one man in his time plays many parts,
His acts being seven ages.

Football

"True courage is that noble quality of mind which makes us forget how afraid we are."

FRANK WHITE
"Whitie"
Indiana, Penna.
Captain.

Captain White has been rightly deemed one of the most brilliant prep-school generals in the state. Certainly "Bill" Smith made no mistake when he said, "A better man than Frank White never walked upon the football field at Indiana." By his unerring wisdom and splendid generalship, this little giant has led his hefty warriors through two consecutive years of victory, having tasted defeat but once each year, and then by no fault of his. In addition to being an irreproachable general he stands second to none as a player on the team and in that capacity is entirely worthy of imitation.

We very much regret to say, however, that those who saw him play last fall will, undoubtedly, have seen him play his last game, for a little pirate in the person of Miss Nelle Alter has captured him for her own. We certainly congratulate both of them, but it is with the greatest reluctance that we see him retire from football, for, "He was born to command and never lost his birthright."

The 1914 Season

THE football season was a decided success, marked by a long string of consecutive victories, the only defeat having come late in the season at the hands of Mansfield Normal. We began the season by defeating the Appollo Independents 49 to 0. Another marked feature of the season was the fact that six of the ten teams who opposed Indiana failed to score, and with the exception of Mansfield no team scored more than six points.

The most complete victory of the season was the victory over the old rival, Kiskiminetas. The Indiana representatives sent the black and white jerseyed Kiski team down to a crushing defeat, 43 to 6. It was the most lopsided score Kiski ever had administered against it by Indiana since the two teams began gridiron relations some twenty years back. It was distinctly a Normal day, for Indiana proved itself the master of Kiski in every particular. From end to end Normal had the better men. Kiski was not only outplayed, but it scampered across the Kiski goal line for the first touchdown, the was outgenerated and outfought. From the time that Jake Pettler Kiski players began to lose spirit, while Normal, like a runaway horse, began to run and there was no stopping it. The victory gave Indiana the prep-school football championship of western Pennsylvania.

The Outlook for 1915

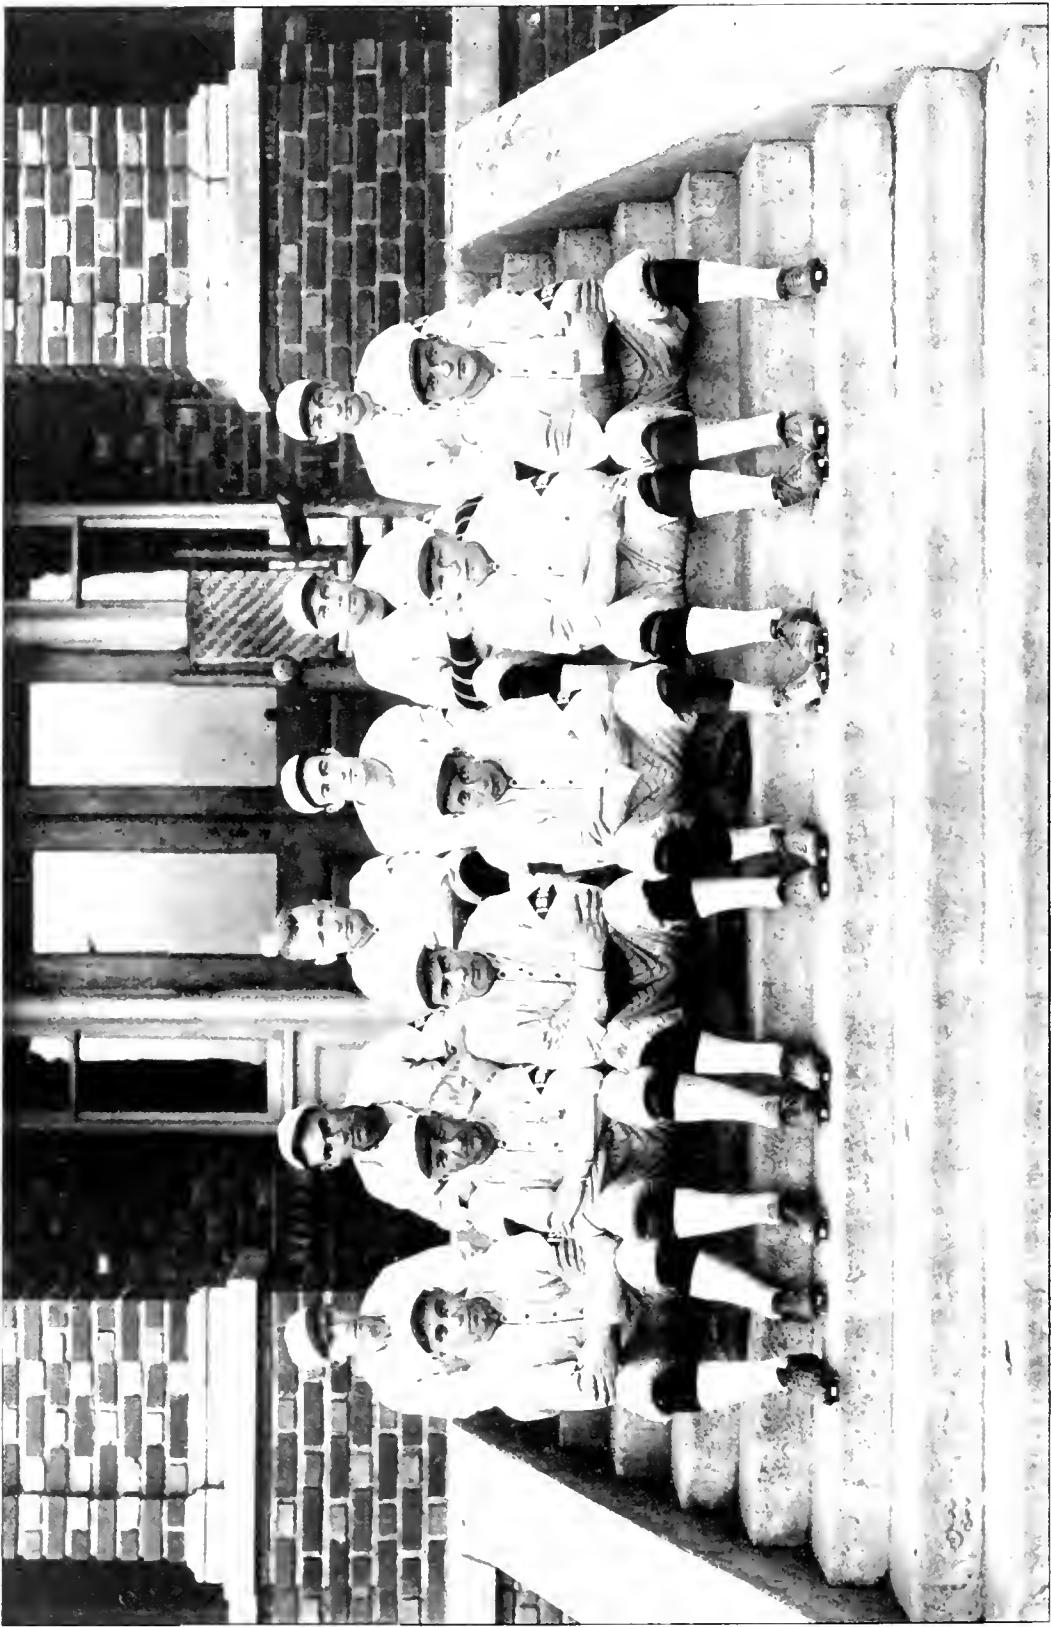

THE prospects for a winning football team in 1915 are exceptionally good. A large number of this year's team will return to form the nucleus around which a very strong team may be gathered. This year was the first year for many of the substitutes, and these men will undoubtedly make invaluable material for the coming season.

Irvin Shick will lead the squad, having succeeded Frank White to the captaincy, and with such a promising general as Shick, and a trio of incomparable coaches, the outlook for the coming season cannot be otherwise than bright.

BASEBALL

WILMER BRICKLEY

"Brick"

Elensburg, Pa.

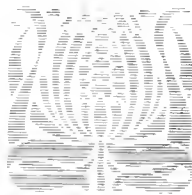

Captain

"Great occasions make great men."

No one person has done quite so much for the cause of baseball at Indiana as Wilmer Brickley. For two years he has given his services as Captain, and this year has the added responsibilities of coach. By his playing alone he has helped Indiana to win countless victories, and by his infallible good judgment, and thorough knowledge of the game, has proved himself worthy of the positions he now holds. Scores of times he has pulled his team through crises unscathed by his perfect command.

"Brick" is an all-round athlete, being the only man in school to wear an "I" in three sports. This year was his first appearance on the football field, and then not until late in the season; but he entered the game like the true Tartar that he is, and won his "I" before the close of the year.

He is a man of vast energies, and when he centers his attention on baseball, he makes his presence felt.

The Baseball Season

AT THE close of last season the greater portion of our "ball tossers" left our ranks to become stars on other teams. We are fortunate, however, in having Brickley, Trainer, Harrick and Stewart with us again this year. This strong quartet was an important factor of last year's team. At present Harrick is our pitching mainstay; Trainer is playing his usual bang-up game at short; Stewart is playing decidedly good ball at third and with Brickley contributing his indispensable services as Captain and Coach, the quartet bids fair to make an even greater showing than last year. In addition to these men we have acquired a good half dozen new men, all of whom play equally good ball.

Dunchalk comes to us from the fast Barnesboro Stars, and proves his abilities by nosing out several hits each game.

Pettler covers first base splendidly, and is of no mean fame as a pitcher.

Ruttenbusch, Weaver and Zener cannot be replaced in their respective positions of catcher, left and center field. Then, too, we have a strong reserve force consisting of Markle, LeVine, Ruffner, Nelson and Siemon.

All of the games played this early in the year Indiana has won with comparative ease, and allowing for improvement, we have every reason to expect a successful season.

RAYMOND CARROL

"Butch"

Coraopolis, Pa.

Captain

"To thy speed add wings."

But few track teams can boast of having a greater leader than Indiana's team has in Raymond Carrol. He is a man of national fame, heralded by books and papers as one of the country's fastest sprinters. "Butch" holds the world's record for the 60-yard dash, having run the distance in 6 1-5 seconds when representing Indiana at Middle Atlantic Championships, January 31, 1914, at Duquesne Garden, Pittsburg. He has also smashed our school records right and left since his arrival. Besides running the short sprints, he runs the 220-yard and 440-yard dashes. On the relay team, for which Indiana is noted, he is an invaluable member, and in a recent meet in Pittsburg when Indiana, having been handicapped 15 yards, was running even with Carnegie Tech, he made up fourteen of the fifteen yards in running his quarter. Numberless times he has done things of this sort which make Indiana proud of him.

The Relay Team has twice defeated the strong Pittsburg Athletic Association Team, the second time with the fast record of 3:30.2-5. The Normal School championship at the Pennsylvania Relay Races was an easy victory over West Chester and Mansfield. In the Interscholastic Meet at State College the team scored 117 points out of a possible 143. Although probably the strongest team that Normal has ever turned out, the 1915 team has not to this writing been forced to extend itself. It will undoubtedly go through with a clear record.

Captain

"Stands five feet eleven inches and every inch a man."

Fortune favored Indiana when she sent us Charles Levine to lead our first basket ball team. As a chief he is most excellent; as a player, the most valuable man on the team.

"Lefty" plays other games and plays them well, but none as well as basket ball. It's his long suit. He possesses all the characteristics common to a basket ball prodigy—wonderful agility and speed, unceasing energy and sureness, with a keen insight into the adversaries' plays, and a steadiness that fills his players with confidence. With these and other qualities, "Lefty" makes himself very much in evidence on the basket ball floor.

INSTANTANO '15

The Basket Ball Season

ALTHOUGH this is the initial year of basket ball for the boys, it has, in the main, been very successful. The first call brought forth approximately thirty candidates for the team. After the "weeding out," this loyal army was reduced to some twelve or thirteen young "hopes," all of whom proved worthy of their selection, and later became shining lights in our basket ball world. At the beginning, however, most of these "stars-to-be" were still in the rough and were sorely in need of polishing. They readily responded to the efforts of Coach Talbot, and went through a very creditable season, playing good basket ball in the opening game, and developing as the season progressed. The first game was with Youngwood High School, whom Indiana found to be a worthy rival. Many exciting contests were played during the year, among which was the close game with Duquesne University, Indiana having won it by a foul, pitched just as the time bell rang at the end of the second half.

The most thrilling contest of the entire year was that played with Kiski's strong team. Kiski took the lead at the start, but failed to maintain it after the first ten minutes. The score settled in favor of one and then the other, until Dame Fortune smiled upon our rivals and left them just two points in advance of us at the close of the game.

Basket ball became immensely popular and regardless of bad weather the fans flocked to the Auditorium in countless numbers, filling the big hall to its utmost capacity.

All things being considered we are justly proud of our team and its record.

The Outlook for 1916

THE outlook for a winning basket ball team next year is very bright. The greater part of the old players will return, and promise to be even better players than this year. At the beginning of the year the material was woefully green, but developed splendidly and under further proper guidance will, beyond a doubt, become veritable phenomena. Then, too, we can count upon an abundance of fresh material from which the team can be strengthened and, with the possibility of a gymnasium, we expect to have a team that will be considered one of the best in this half of the state.

"Every production of genius must be the product of enthusiasm."

Margaret Seibert is the little marvel who so successfully led the girls through this year's hard basket ball schedule. Margaret is, to speak plainly, always on the job. She is not a star today and a substitute tomorrow; but always the same strong player. On the team she plays as guard and so uncommonly well that visiting teams have been heard to remark that no one ever guarded them so closely as Miss Seibert. We regret that she will not be with us again next season, as she graduates this year. However, she has a worthy successor in Rebecca Lowman, one of our cheer leaders. "Becky" has been one of the pillars of the team for some time and promises to be an excellent captain.

Girls' Basket Ball

THE Indiana Girls' Basket Ball Team opened their season of games early in January under the efficient direction of Miss Eyre. All of last year's team were on hand, and with the addition of several new players, the girls started out with promising prospects. Their first game with Crafton High School was played on the home floor and was their first victory, Indiana scoring 16 points to Crafton's 7. However, after the first game, the ill-health of Miss Eyre prevented strenuous practice, and this, with continued hard luck on the part of the girls, led to several defeats. At this time, through the combined efforts of Miss Eyre and Bill Smith, former coach, the girls were helped out of the "rut" they were in, took new vigor and once again played their old style game, winning victories by large scores over Langwood, at Langwood, New Brighton High School at New Brighton, Tyrone P. R. R. Y. M. C. A. girls, both at home and at Tyrone, and Windber High School at Windber.

The last two games of the season were played with the strong Williamsport High School team; these girls proved themselves both clever and strong players and, Indiana, being outplayed in a hard-fought game on the Williamsport floor, went down to defeat at the hands of this team. This loss, however, was an incentive and with hard work on the part of the girls and good management of Bill Smith, the girls easily outclassed and outplayed this same team on the home floor, and carried off the victory—thus redeeming themselves for their former defeats.

As a whole, the girls of both 1914 and 1915 teams are to be congratulated on their good work, as well as the coaches, who showed both skill and "Patience" in directing the team.

We hope that next year's team will be most successful and know that it will be with "Becky" Lowman as captain.

Faculty Corn Roast

AS regularly as September rolls around, and schools begin, the Faculty at I. S. N. S. hold their annual "Corn Roast." Last September the weather made for the event. On the afternoon of the day set, all sorts of things appropriate to eat at such a time were being taken up to "Reservoir Hill," where a large fire had been made in a stone pit.

A few hours later everything was ready to serve. There was roasted corn, hot and buttered, baked sweet potatoes, fried bacon, sandwiches and coffee. When this was eaten great boxes of marshmallows were brought forth. While these were being toasted, some sang songs and others told jokes and stories. Thus continued the happy party until the late hours began to creep upon them and they realized that it was time to return.

INSTANTANO '15

Senior Hay Ride and Color Rush

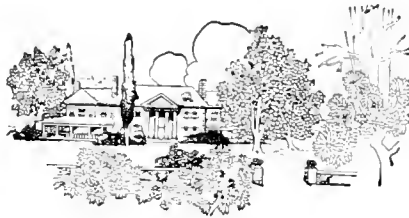

ANDEMONIUM reigned supreme when the assembled forces of the Junior Class met to try conclusions with the experienced warriors of the Senior Class. The awful ruction began immediately after breakfast and raged on until the hay wagons came to take the Seniors away from the scenes of devastation to the more inviting amusements of the Country Club. The four large wagons, filled to overflowing with the happy Seniors, rolled forth from our portals at nine o'clock, and after an entire day of amusement, re-entered our gates in time for dinner. With joyous songs and yells, the merry company entered the dining room radiating their happiness to all. The following day was given to the Seniors as a holiday in which to rest themselves, and it was used to great advantage.

INSTANTANO '15

The "I" Banquet

IN accordance with the established custom, the wearers of the "I" were given their annual banquet and dance, on the evening of At seven-thirty the merry-makers repaired to the dining room and there feasted upon turkey and an innumerable host of other good things. After leaving the festive board, the couples retired to Recreation Hall where they enjoyed an informal dance. The unusual gayety was sufficient evidence that every moment of the evening was thoroughly enjoyed by everyone present. And as the affair was discussed in the days that followed, more than one of those not present swore to wear an "I" before another year had elapsed.

INSTANTANO '15

The Junior Prom

THE first wholly magnificent social affair took place in the form of the Junior Promenade, at which time around or about ninety glad-eyed and exquisitely-costumed little Juniors indulged in the terpsichorean diversions. At approximately half-past seven the merriment began, and they chased the evening hours with fleeting feet to the enchanting strains of Moore's orchestra until the respectable hour of eleven-thirty saw them safely in bed. The evening was inexpressibly pleasant and on the morrow each one of the visiting gallants expressed, or in some manner showed, his reluctance to leave, and just as many little feminine hearts were saddened by their departure; but "tomorrow is another day," and next year will bring them back again.

INSTANTANO '15

Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. Cabinet's Sleigh Ride

ALTHOUGH rather inconspicuous because of its limitations, perhaps the most thoroughly and keenly enjoyed social event of the entire year was the sleigh ride of the combined Young Women's and Young Men's Christian Association Cabinets and advisory members given in honor of Eleanor Richardson, student secretary of Pennsylvania, Maryland, Delaware and New Jersey. In the early afternoon two big sleds filled with joyous young people passed from our gates and journeyed to Shelocta where a sumptuous repast of chicken and waffles awaited them. After a delightfully pleasant evening had been spent in the little hamlet, the merry-makers returned to Indiana.

INSTANTANO '15

Phi Alpha Dance

THE regular Christmas dance of the Iota Chapter of the Phi Alpha Fraternity was held in the new Recreation Hall on the night of December 18th. Many of the brothers gone out in past years from school were back again and added to the brotherly spirit of the ones in school at the present time.

The music was furnished by St. Clair's Orchestra, and dancing was continued until the small hours of the morning, when the couples retired to the dining room, where a dinner was served.

INSTANTANO '15

The Senior Dance

OF ALL the events of our Senior year, there was none more looked forward to, or more to be desired, than that of the Senior Dance. From the day we entered school in the fall as Seniors, we thought of February the twentieth; talked of it, and the most pleasant memories will ever cling lovingly about this date.

From early morn' everyone seemed in a hurry, but no one was nearly so busy as she seemed. There wasn't a Senior girl in the class who could claim the secret of "why she looked so expectant after lunch" as her very own. We all know that the two-seventeen was bringing all the "he's" for the dance. After the necessary requisites had sauntered leisurely through North Door, the hall was filled with eager underclassmen, all anxious to miss nothing.

But the climax was reached when St. Clair's brought the last stragglers in a hurry to Main Hall about half-past seven. We were all too happy to think from the time we entered the receiving line until it was all over, about eleven-thirty. The music was perfect, the girls charming; but there is no word expressive enough for those men.

We all know whose efforts had been put forth to make the dance the best ever, and to you, "our committee," Helen Church, Verda Braden and Glenni Clemenson, the Senior Class extends its most sincere thanks for a wonderful time.

The Lincoln Debating Dance

THE Sixth Annual Debate and Dance of the Lincoln Debating Club held on Saturday evening, February 27, 1915, was a most enjoyable and successful affair. The debate for the first time in the history of the Club was held in Chapel and was open to all students and townspeople. A goodly number turned out to hear the debate. The program of the evening's proceedings follows:

President's Address

Debate—Resolved, That women be granted equal suffrage with men

Affirmative.....Glenni Clemenson, Champion; Wilmer Brickley

Negative.....Fred St. Clair, Champion; William Markle

Alternatives.....Harry Crawford, Horace Trimble

(Harry Crawford alternated for Glenni Clemenson)

Decision of Judges.....In favor of Affirmative

The dance which followed the debate was an informal program affair and was thoroughly enjoyed by all who attended. The light refreshments served in the Library were a delight to the palate, the music was excellent and it was with much regret that we danced our last number and bade each other "goodnight."

It was twelve-thirty. Skeats was telling her what a baseball shark he was.

Came a voice from above: "Let's see you make a home run."

Gink: "One certainly has to admire that fellow Showalter. He has practically borrowed his way through the world."

Pink: "Yes, you certainly do have to give him credit."

"I hear Jones, the sea captain, is in hard luck. He married a girl and she ran away from him."

"Yes, he took her for a mate, and she turned out to be a skipper."

An officer was showing the old lady over the battleship. "This," said he, pointing to an inscribed plate on the deck, "is where our gallant captain fell."

"No wonder," replied the old lady, "I nearly slipped on it myself."—Everybody's.

Inez: "Did you hear that Lengthey is going to leave us?"

Thel: "Where is he going?"

Inez: "He has accepted a position to pose in a macaroni factory."

"What is the difference between a landlady and a Prof?"

"What?"

"One puts the board on the table—the other puts the table on the board." Gargoyle.

"What's that list of names they're putting up in Leonard Hall?"

"Dunna—unless it's the permanent Chapel seating."

"Why do you carry that umbrella, little boy?" asked the passerby curiously. "It's not raining and the sun is not shining."

"I know," said the youth, "but when it rains Pa wants it, and when the sun shines Ma wants it, and this is the only kinda weather I can git ter use it at all."

The fraction leaned over and touched the whole number on the shoulder. "Say," she whispered, "is my numerator on straight?"

She: "I should say so. Some of them don't look as if they had a brain in their heads."

Teacher: "Well, children, what shall we give the Belgian sufferers?"

Kid (in the rear): "I move we give them three cheers!"

Little Daughter: "King John used to run down people with his motor ears."

Father: "I think you are mistaken, dear."

Little Daughter: "O, yes, he did. He ground down the people with his taxis."

He: "There are some vague rumors floating around I. S. N. S. that—"

—Widow.

AND STILL THEY COME

He: "I was out riding in my Ford yesterday."

She: "Yes."

He: "And I stuck one foot out the side of the machine."

She: "Well?"

He: "And some boob hollered, 'Hey, mister, yeh lost one of your roller skates.'"—Widow.

"I never saw such a man as you are. I really believe you hate yourself."

"Well, why shouldn't I? My mother is English and my father is German."—Puck.

"What musical instrument produces foot notes?"

"A shoe horn."

Miss Field was instructing the students in natural history.

"Can anyone tell me what an oyster is?" she asked.

The hand of Holland shot up in the air.

"I know! I know! An oyster," triumphantly announced "Doe," "is a fish built like a nut."

King Cole (rapidly approaching) to obstructing party: "Look out! Here comes the fast mail."

Cows hide in peculiar places,

And hardly know where they will stop;

Why, would you believe it, I myself saw

A cow hide in a shoemaker's shop.

Thomas: "How can I keep my toes from going to sleep?"
Julius: "Don't let them turn in."

Arnold: "Let's drop in at this restaurant."
Hills: "We haven't got enough money to go in there."
Arnold: "Yes, I know, but I need a new overcoat."

Frances Graff: "Mr. Wiley, am I excused from this Algebra examination?"

Prof. Wiley: "Why no—why do you ask? No one is excused from this examination."

Frances Graff: "I understood the examination would include no gra."

She: "See you're getting quite chummy with your Profs."

He: "Yep, familiarity sometimes breeds exempts."

"What attracts all these dogs into the Chapel?"

"It is meet to sing praises unto the Lord."

Dorm: "Do you get board where you are rooming?"

Outsider: "Oh, terribly bored! There isn't a girl in the place!"

Algebra: "How do you make V equal X ?"

Student: "If I only knew, I wouldn't be broke so often."

It: "I dreamed last night I took the classiest queen on the campus to the prom."

She: "Did I dance well?"

He: "When will the war be at its height?"

She: "In the spring when the grass begins to shoot."

That gil has such good table manners.

She should have; she was on the training table for two seasons.

She (at dance): "Don't you think there are a queer set of men here tonight?"

He: "Sure. This is Odd Fellows hall, you know."—Froth.

Georgina: "O, yes, when I go to the theatah I always take a box."

He: "Whassamatter, don't they have no seats?"

INSTANT '15

"Did you hear about Jones' accident?"

"No; what was it?"

"He ate a cheese sandwich last night, forgot to wash his face, and a rat bit him on the lip while he was asleep."

I took a trip to Washington,
The rates were so "darned" cheap.
I drew my money out of bank,
And took along the heap.
On my return some clever crook
Took all that he could find,
'Tis evident that I did leave
Two capitals behind.

Enke: "Do you like popcorn balls?"

Bennett: "I don't know that I ever attended any."

Bill: "What happened when Lengthey went into the barber shop and asked for a hair cut?"

Don: "He was bald out."

"Dost hear footsteps?" said the Quaker to his love, as they spooned in the garden.

"Aye, dost thou?" she said.

"Aye."

Then they both dust.

Visitor: "What's going on here tonight?"

New Student: "One of the maternities is giving a dance."

Ain't it funny how the little guy you pass every day,
Who hides behind his school books in a timid sort of way,
Who slides along the sidewalk, and who speaks to but a few,
Who walks along and never says a single word to you—
Ain't it queer how such a cuss who blushes when he's seen,
Blows on the dance floor at the hop with a million-dollar queen?

Visitor: "Oh, dear! I forgot to wind my ankle watch."

Jake: "Allow me—er—that is—did you?"

"Why does that man call his pig 'Inky?'"

"Because it is always running away from the pen."

AT THE FOOTBALL GAME

She: "What are they putting their arms around each other's necks in that circle for?"

He: "Somebody's probably telling a story that the girls in the stand ought not to hear."

AN UP-TO-DATE HYMN

"One step enough for me."

"Tomorrow, gentlemen," said the professor in a lecture on taking notes. "I will bring in my cards and show you my card system."

Voice: "O. K., Doc, fetch some chips and we'll have a regular party."

Mona: "How does a black baby differ from a white one?"

Lisa: "Elucidate."

Mona: "One's crocheted and the other is knit."

Judge: "Where did the automobile hit you?"

Rastus: "Well, Judge, if I'd been carrying a license number, it would hab busted to a thousand pieces."

Why feed the baby so many sausages?

Oh—we want to weiner.

Dentist: "Open wider, please; wider."

Patient: "A-A-A-Ah."

Dentist (inserting rubber gag, towel and sponge): "How's your family?"

"I hear that the manager of the show has discharged Miss Broomsticks."

"No; he merely told her to pack her trunks."

A man allowed himself to get very excited about a letter he had written to an editor of a newspaper. He told a friend that he intended to lick the editor.

"Why?"

"Well, the other day I sent him a letter on public affairs, which I signed 'Honestas.'"

"Didn't he print it?"

"Sure, but what did he do but add 's' to the signature."
